

Alice Markey, B.A.

Writer & Communications Assistant, The Improve Group

As a Writer and Communications Assistant, Alice brings a passion for developing stories that resonate with and are accessible to a wide range of audiences. Her background in technical writing and communications while at the College of Wooster translates well into the writing and communications demands of proposal writing and marketing at IG. Outside of work, Alice enjoys sewing, cooking, and any outdoor activity.

Expertise

Communications

Alice applies her eye for purpose- and goal-driven writing while writing and editing proposals, final reports, and newsletter articles. Drawing on her academic research and writing experience, Alice's writing style helps explain complicated ideas clearly.

Marketing

Alice's eye for strategy contributes to her holistic marketing approach, where she seeks to understand audiences, communication methods, and mediums. She develops narratives in communication campaigns that are engaging to audiences and achieve goals.

Communication Coaching

Alice's roles as a writing center consultant, student success mentor, and presentation coach have honed her skills in communication coaching. She has experience working one-on-one or in small groups to workshop messaging, communication strategy, and writing mechanics, ultimately creating clear, professional, and engaging stories for proposals and final reports.
